

I often think about how we got here so many bridges burt and rivers crossed now im just happy knowing your out there im still wondering where our love got lost and now that its over,

all things said and done
i find that the afterwords are clouds in the setting sun im so grateful for our time together the waves of laughter and the rain of tears but even thru all the rough weather im glad to know you after all these years

and now that its over,
all things said and done
i find that the afterwords
are clouds in the setting sun