

I am the minstrel and I am invincible
the powers are mine to live until the end of time so I drop a crystal into a well out pops a mermaid who has a tale to tell she tells me of a girl beyond my dreams who lays across the deep blue sea and so I call to me the winds for the mother goddess is my friend and I sail across the ocean blue where I'm awaited by a pirate or two and so I call down some lightning and those pirates decide against fighting and they turn with their tails between their legs and ran and then I headed on my journey again

This morning I awoke smiling for there awaited my curious island and on it there was a cave which led to the princess that I knew I had to save but the cave was guarded by a two headed beast fire breathing dragons and wild attacking geese and so I turned myself invisible to the eye and then I crept right on by until I came upon an underground tower with no door I had to use my flying carpet to get up to the eleventh floor flew through the window where the bars were broken and stole away with the princess without a word being spoken
